

When an author luncheon includes an author who plays the guitar, sings, and will cut your silhouette with his magic scissors – and oh yes, has good food – that's a fun day you can't miss!

The USCB Lunch With Author Series on Thursday, December 12th provides the author, Clay Rice, and Moss Creek Clubhouse will provide the luncheon.

Clay Rice is one of the foremost silhouette artists in the world, having been influenced by his grandfather, legendary silhouette artist, Carew Rice. Maxine Lutz of the Historic Beaufort Foundation, wrote about Carew Rice: " Rice traveled the South 'cutting' at county fairs, civic and social events, and he created a following of the who's-who among South Carolina families in what he called "gem towns and cities in my brave little state." Although he captured the nuances of the human body in silhouette, it is his landscapes that set him apart from all other American silhouettists, perhaps because, as he wrote, he was "...in sympathy tuned to the all out-of-doors."

Clay entertains in much the same fashion as his legendary grandfather. His Christmas cheer begins
