

Local author Tim Johnston, who has been hailed as one of the modern masters of the short story, will sign copies of his new book, Friday Afternoon and Other Stories, at a launch party for the book on Friday, May 20th, from 4-7 pm. The historic Lewis Reeve Sams House, also known as the Prince of Tides House, will be the site of the event.

Johnston, who lives on Lady's Island with his wife, Stacey, and their three children, is known as T.D. Johnston to readers outside of the Lowcountry. North Carolina author Ray Morrison recently called him "one of the finest voices of contemporary short fiction." Says Johnston, "I have been floored by the response of writers and editors to this book. I hope that it is as rewarding for readers as it has been for me in creating the human souls who inhabit these

https://www.fox43.com/story/43711112/friday-afternoon-tim-johnston-fox-43/