

Ben Walker will head to Beaufort soon to sign copies of his new book, Winds of the South, a novel set in pre-Civil War Georgia. It's been ten years since his last book, Sentimental Music, hit the scene... and just about that long since Ben was a regular visitor to Beaufort, where he served annually as a judge and coach in the South Carolina Playwrights Conference. Ben, a resident of Jacksonville, Florida, has missed the Lowcountry and can't wait to return! Look for details in upcoming issues of Lowcountry Weekly.
