

Written by Editor
Sunday, 28 July 2013 13:13

Early Bird registration is now open for the Second Annual Short Story America Festival and Conference, to be held in Beaufort from September 26-29. For information and to get your all-events pass for this great literary event, go to www.shortstoryamerica.com .

Also . . .

Does the next Flannery O'Connor or Raymond Carver live in the Lowcountry? Entries are now being accepted for the Short Story America Prize for Short Fiction. Short stories ranging from 500 to 12,000 words in length are eligible. New fiction only. To enter, go to www.shortstoryamerica.com . Click on CONTESTS.

Read more Books