

Steak Night with Friends

Written by Debbi Covington
Tuesday, 20 August 2019 08:29

Yep. Vince and I had another dinner party. This time it was a steak dinner for four. Vince grilled the ribeye steaks while I did kitchen duty.

Vidalia Onion Dip was our appetizer. It's an easy spread for crostini or crackers. You could even bake it in the little filo tarts that are sold on the frozen foods aisle in the grocery store. I put together a delicious salad with a light balsamic vinaigrette, made a mushroom sauce for the steaks and whipped some cauliflower instead of making baked potatoes. For dessert we served Coffee Latte Frozen Yogurt topped with chocolate-covered espresso beans. We bought a Cuisinart ice cream machine last summer and have been experimenting with different ice creams this month. This was my first attempt at frozen yogurt. The texture is a bit different from ice cream but it's just as tasty, with way fewer fat and calories. I hope you'll invite a couple of friends over to your house and try these yummy recipes. Happy Cooking!

Vidalia Onion Dip

Written by Debbi Covington
Tuesday, 20 August 2019 08:29

A close-up photograph of a white ceramic bowl filled with a thick, creamy potato soup. The soup is garnished with finely chopped green herbs. The bowl is placed on a blue and white patterned plate. In the background, a glass of water and a colorful ceramic pitcher are visible.

2 / 3

Steak Night with Friends

Written by Debbi Covington

Tuesday, 20 August 2019 08:29

<http://www.covington.com>